

State Forest Supt. Kills Lad In Crash

MAX LAAGE DRIVER OF CRASH CAR

Alvin M. Ray, 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Ray, of Blue Lake township, Kalkaska county, was instantly killed at 2:45 p. m. Monday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile driven by Max Laage, of Grayling, superintendent of the AuSable state forest here.

The boy was returning home from the Blue Lake school, 14 miles east of Kalkaska on county road No. 612.

According to Supt. Laage, the boy was walking on the left side of the highway. As he approached the boy at a speed of 40 miles an hour he said he sounded his horn and the boy suddenly turned and ran directly into the side of his car being struck by the car's left fender. Laage said he applied his brakes, but the car skidded in loose gravel.

The boy was hurled 30 feet by the impact, his arm and shoulder being fractured and he also sustained a skull fracture.

Sheriff Chester J. Parker of Kalkaska county investigated.

Coroner Hattie M. Clapp, also of Kalkaska county, said an inquest had been scheduled for Tuesday afternoon.

Those who know Max Laage will have no doubt but that this was an unavoidable accident as far as he was concerned. He never drives fast and is considered a most careful driver. This unfortunate accident, however, no doubt must be very depressing for him, even tho he might not be to blame.

City Retires More Water Works Bonds

November 1st, City Manager Geo. Granger, sent out checks amounting to over $2,600 in payment on our waterworks bonds. $2,000 of this was payment on principal and the balance was for interest. The waterworks fund still has a balance of over $800 in its treasury.

Every bond issue of the city has been promptly met in every instance. Whenever payments come due Manager Granger has always had the money to pay with.

We sometimes wonder if our taxpayers and citizens generally fully appreciate how efficient our city government is. Manager Granger has his fingers on every detail of the city's affairs, and nothing is neglected. Ask him any question relative to city matters and he is always prepared to give the information desired. His ability as a graduate engineer makes his services very valuable to the city. Backed by an earnest and efficient council, our city is in excellent hands.

New Sportsmans Club Organized

A meeting at the court house for all sportsmen of this vicinity was held on Monday evening, Nov. 6th. At this meeting, members of this group selected the name of "Grayling Sportsmans Club" to represent this community. Five members were chosen for the board of directors and the following were selected: Roy Trudgeon, Earl Burns, Carl Sorenson, Wm. Huddleston and R. Robertson.

Officers elected for this club were: R. Robertson, Pres.; Wm. Huddleston, vice pres.; Earl Burns, sec'y., and Carl Sorenson, treasurer. At present this club consists of 70 members and in a few days a membership drive will get under way to increase this number.

Various suggestions were brot up by those attending, dealing with the deer food shortage, and for small game, winter fishing in local lakes and many other vital questions which members were interested in. These questions will be brought up at future meetings and thoroughly discussed. At present they feel that the presence of all outdoor minded men who join this club will aid, not only the preservation of game and fish in this county and state but make contacts and aid the unknown sportsman who annually comes into this county, seeking this information from the local sportsman club.

Anyone wishing to join can contact the above members for the present. Dues are 50c annually.

LEGION AUXILIARY TO HOLD SALE NOV. 11-18

Proceeds Go To Disabled Vets

The American Legion Auxiliary has a lovely assortment of fancy work and leather articles made by the disabled veterans in the American Legion hospital at Battle Creek.

These articles are all hand made and the work is beautifully done. They are sold for the benefit of these men and their families and we are very desirous of disposing of them soon, that the men may have their money for Christmas.

Neither the Legion nor the Auxiliary receive any money for selling these articles; it all goes to the veteran who made them.

These goods will be on sale at the Johnson Furniture store Saturday, Nov. 11 and Saturday, Nov. 18th.

Come in and see the work these veterans (many of them, mentally disabled) have been taught to do, and buy one or more to help the work. They fought for us, let us show we have not forgotten.

Remember the dates, Nov. 11 and Nov. 18th.

Harry Heilman Held "Town Meeting" Here

A radio feature that features the genial and popular Harry Heilman, entitled "Town Meeting," was broadcast from here Tuesday evening, at the Rialto theatre.

The "meeting" was called to order by Mr. Heilman, who extended felicitations to the people of Grayling. His broadcasts of Tiger baseball games this last season included frequent mention of Grayling. He said that he understands that "Birdie" Tebbets, star catcher of the Detroit Tigers, will spend the winter in Grayling and serve as publicity manager for our winter sports. He spoke very highly of Tebbets and said he was sure a lot of major league team managers would be glad to get him.

A number of our citizens were called before the "mike" and interviewed. Vernon Rasmussen, a young local baseball enthusiast was the first to appear for an interview. He proved by his talk that he knew his baseball and the baseball players.

Mayor George Burke was given a thunderous cheer as he appeared on the stage. Mr. Heilman assured him that he must be pretty popular with his people in order to get such a rousing reception. The Mayor assured Mr. Heilman that he was most welcome to Grayling, that we had a fine city and that we are proud of it.

Mrs. Thomas Cassidy was hailed before the "mike" and told Mr. Heilman and the audience that Shoppenagons Inn was a fine hotel. She must have been excited when she said it had only 28 rooms, when it really has 54. They entertain some distinguished guests and serve excellent meals.

Clarence (Johnny) Johnson, vice president of Winter Sports, Inc., told some things about Grayling's winter park and this season's program. He claimed that Grayling is going to have the best winter park in America, and finally extended the area to the finest in the world. Attaboy, Johnny!

Jack Redhead modestly admitted that he knows how to fish trout. In answer to Mr. Heilman's question as to the largest trout he had ever landed, he said 9 pounds, measuring 28 inches.

Fifteen minutes for a broadcast is altogether too short a time for telling much about Grayling. But the old "Town Meeting" was an interesting and pleasant affair. Thanks, Harry, please do come back.

TRUCK STRIKES AUTO

Edwin Chalker and Ernest Bissonette sustained scratches and bruises when their car was struck from behind by a truck near Eldorado.

The men were turning off the highway when a truck and trailer owned by S. D. Drowley, of Eldorado, driven by Delbert Clark and loaded with pulpwood, came over the crest of a hill and struck the Chalker car, rolling it over several times.

The load of pulpwood toppled over at the side of the road, but the driver was not injured. The car was badly damaged, but was driven into Grayling by Chalker after the crash.

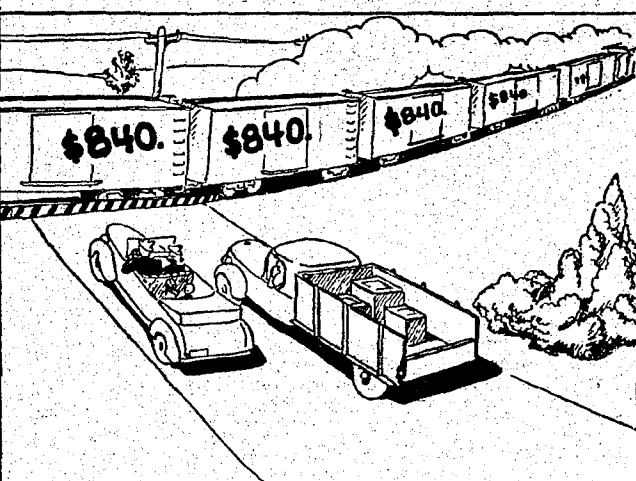

broadcast and will be presented by transcription over the Michigan network Friday (tomorrow) at 12:45 o'clock (noon). Tune in at WBCN or some other station on that network and hear this program repeated. (Don't forget the time—tomorrow a quarter to one o'clock).

While here Mr. Heilman had a chance to see Grayling's winter park and hear about the reconstruction plans that are in process of building at this time. Like everyone else who sees the park, he is enthusiastic over it and is anxious to come here sometime in January provided he is able to get time off from his radio broadcasting. He also visited the trout hatchery and the Hanson State Military reservation.

After the broadcast Tuesday evening, he with his commentator Don Slagle, his engineer and electrician, spent an evening at the George Fairfield cottage on the AuSable river, where they enjoyed a duck dinner. Mr. Heilman and his party liked it so well here that they remained over until today—Thursday. He feels that he has been royally entertained and was reluctant to leave here. He left here this forenoon for Mt. Pleasant where he will conduct another of his "Town Hall" broadcasts.

No doubt local baseball fans will recall that Heilman lead the American League batting, while with the Tigers, for four seasons.

LOAD OF TAXES—Trucks pay 15 times as heavy taxes per ton as do the railroads. If a freight car of California oranges going to New York were to pay truck taxes, the tax bill would be more than $840. The tax cost on the coast to coast trip of the loaded freight car is now only $54. Costs of some foods would go sky high if the railroads were taxed like trucks.

A Few Simple Hunting Rules

To guide the half million hunters who will frequent Michigan's fields and woods and waters this fall, conservation authorities bring to their attention again a hunting code that embodies many essential points of sportsmanship.

Without doubt most Michigan hunters do have great respect for both the written and unwritten laws which govern their sport. It is believed, however, that few will fail to benefit from occasional reference to the "rules" in printed form. The code follows:

Remember that hunting was the sport of kings and princes only, and was regarded by them as an honorable and chivalrous pastime. Today it can be the sport of every man. Do nothing to degrade it.

Be considerate of others always.

Do not use intoxicating beverages while hunting.

Wear the back-tag of your hunting license at all times afield. Keep a copy of the Michigan game law digest in your hunting jacket, your car or your suit coat.

Study the game laws. Be firm in your determination to observe them.

Do not forget the law forbids the cleaning or dressing of game in the field so as to destroy the identity of sex or species. Wait till you get home.

Learn to distinguish readily the legal game species. Always be sure of your target before you shoot.

Always ask for the privilege of hunting on a farm. Be polite. Introduce yourself to the owner. Park your car out of the way in his yard.

Remember that under the Horton trespass law a farmer may have you arrested for entering his premises to hunt without permission even though his land is neither fenced nor posted.

If you are responsible for any damage, or find that damage has been caused by others, report it to the landholder.

Learn by practice to handle and shoot a gun safely... before you go hunting.

Adopt the slogan "A gun is always loaded." Don't forget it! Leave a clean camp. Be careful in disposing of lighted matches and cigar or cigarette butts.

Do not forget, discard or lose the report form attached to your hunting license. Use it to report your game kill before Feb. 15.

Cooperate with the conservation officer. He is employed to serve you and protect your rights. Sportsmen have nothing to fear from him.

Deer Hunters Starting North

The northward drive of Michigan's deer hunting army is reported from many upper Michigan points as hunters in colorful costume pass through on their way to camp. The season opens Wednesday, November 15. Step-ped-up ferry service at the Straits will be available if needed beginning November 10, the state highway department has announced.

The 1939 deer "harvest" is expected to be quite as good as the hunting in 1938 when 44,800 bucks were bagged. More than 160,000 deer licenses were issued last year. Regulations continue unchanged. The season extends from November 15 to 30 inclusive with archers already in the field in a special season of their own from November 1 to 14. The ban on doe shooting continues in effect and will be strictly enforced, officers of the department of conservation have reported.

The upland game bird season closed Sunday, November 5 in the lower peninsula with pheasants in southern Michigan showing the effect of heavy hunting pressure and hard to find, even with dogs. In the northern part of the peninsula grouse were reported wild and flushing far ahead of the dogs, out of gun range. Squirrel hunting improved toward the season's close, with the last foliage shed, but in some districts a scarcity of big squirrels was reported.

Duck hunting is reported generally improving, especially along the Great Lakes, as stormy weather has brought flight ducks within range. Reports of geese are scattered. Woodcock shooting, which had been good, ended October 31 in lower Michigan but other migratory birds may be hunted until November 14.

Raccoon hunting opened November 1 in lower Michigan with weather conditions ideal for tracking with dogs. Cottontails are expected to get more attention with the close of the bird season and in northern Michigan more hunting of snowshoe hares is looked for when the animals have taken on their winter coat of white.

Trapping of muskrat and mink began November 1 in the upper peninsula and continues for the remainder of the month. The seasons are November 15 to December 15 for northern lower Michigan and December 1 to 31 inclusive for southern lower Michigan. Raccoon trapping seasons are November 15 to December 15 for the upper part of lower Michigan and December 1 to 15 for the southern half of the peninsula. No raccoon hunting or trapping is permitted in the upper peninsula.

Want Recruits At Illinois Arsenal

Qualified recruits are now being accepted for two ordnance maintenance companies, being formed at the Rock Island, Illinois, arsenal, of the United States Army. Lieut. General Stanley H. Ford, Commanding the 2nd Army and the 6th Corps area, announced today.

Rock Island is the largest governmental manufacturing arsenal, has extensive shops, and manufactures, assembles, and tests artillery of all kinds, tanks, and miscellaneous ordnance equipment.

Recruit training, General Ford pointed out, includes comprehensive instruction in the operation, assembly, and inspection of ordnance material. Experienced army officers and civilians supervise the work of enlisted personnel in shops, machinist training, and in the specialized branches, such as armorers, artillery mechanics, auto mechanics, instrument repairmen, welders and many others.

Proficient enlisted men will have an opportunity to become non-commissioned officers, with resultant pay increases. The general knowledge of machinery and mechanics can also be utilized in case the soldier elects to return to civilian life, following his army enlistment.

Interested persons can secure further information from the nearest recruiting station, or from any United States Army Reserve office.

There is no question but that the pressure exerted by the Administration on the legislative body makes the Administration fully responsible for any unfortunate happening that may follow as a result of the lifting of the embargo.

It is to be expected of course, that if this act precipitates a campaign of frightfulness in Europe the Administration will attempt to deny its responsibility and the whole question is whether or not American fathers and mothers are going to continue to let matters drift to the point where their sons may have to spill their blood in war, because of an apparent determination on the part of the Administration to meddle in Europe's quarrels.

We may, of course, expect from now on more meddling in Europe's quarrels than we have

Washington Notes And Comments

By Congressman Roy O. Woodruff Tenth Michigan District.

The Administration steam roller, well oiled and under high pressure, was operating to perfection last week when by a majority of 62 the House of Representatives voted to repeal the arms embargo.

Under the lash and spur of the Administration, the House voted on amendments almost as significant in their implications and potentialities as the embargo act.

One amendment which was voted down was proposed by Representatives Jesse P. Wolcott of Michigan which would have lugged up the pipelines leading from the United States Treasury by devious underground routes to the Anglo-Franco entente, notwithstanding the Johnson Act.

The House, strange to say, refused to adopt an amendment placing an embargo on poison gas, flame throwers and any other inhuman and devilish devices that may be developed or revealed before this war is ended.

There is no question but that the Administration had its way. Just as the House of Representatives voted to help England and France, knowing that to repeal the embargo meant just that, so Britain and France know that and regard the repeal of the embargo as a great victory for them over the sentiment of the American people; so, too, do the Germans and Russians regard the repeal as an unneutral and unfriendly act. Since this is the attitude in Europe, it is foolish to longer close our eyes to the fact that the countries of Europe, particularly the belligerents on both sides, consider that this repeal of the embargo act is our first step into participation in the war and that we are in the war now.

A belated statement forced out of the Department of State by the revealed facts that England and France have seized some 23 of our ships for carrying contraband, with hardly a paragraph given to it in Congress or by the Administration, while the German seizure of the City of Flint has been smoked up by the Administration as a startling breach of international law, made us look foolish because of the fact the British, within two days after the seizure, declared the Germans entirely within their rights.

Rumors are now reaching Washington that Germany may, as a result of the repeal of the embargo, plan to begin immediate air bombardment of England and France and their sea commerce in an effort to force them to negotiate peace before the United States can furnish them with sufficient airplanes to "bomb Germany loose by the roots."

There is no question but that the pressure exerted by the Administration on the legislative body makes the Administration fully responsible for any unfortunate happening that may follow as a result of the lifting of the embargo.

It is to be expected of course, that if this act precipitates a campaign of frightfulness in Europe the Administration will attempt to deny its responsibility and the whole question is whether or not American fathers and mothers are going to continue to let matters drift to the point where their sons may have to spill their blood in war, because of an apparent determination on the part of the Administration to meddle in Europe's quarrels.

We may, of course, expect from now on more meddling in Europe's quarrels than we have witnessed heretofore as the Administration can with a show of logic insist that its policy of meddling in these desperate quarrels has not only been condoned, but approved by the Congress.

Farmers and industrialists (other than arms and munitions manufacturers) undoubtedly will be very unhappy over a situation which those of us who fought the repeal of the arms embargo foresaw—that British imports from the United States other than arms and munitions will meet with a drastic curtailment—amounting to perhaps more than $150,000,000 a year. Statements reaching Washington from London indicate clearly that Britain, and probably France, will use their liquid reserves in this country to buy munitions only, and will divert their trade in other goods and commodities to those countries where they can get credit, and to their own dominions. This means, of course, that outside of the munitions makers American agriculture and industry will suffer and not benefit from the action of the Congress in repealing the arms embargo.

RETURN LICENSE PLATES WHEN BUYING NEW PLATES

Harry F. Kelley, Secretary of State, has requested all purchasers of new 1940 license plates to surrender the 1939 plates at the time of purchase.

Mr. Kelly has deemed it advisable to make this request because of the fact that 1939 license plates if not turned into the Branch office might be used by an unlawful owner. Many persons in the past have been careless about the disposition of the old plates, and have become involved in complications resulting from that carelessness.

Much time can be saved in the issuance of your new license plates by having the old plates ready to turn over to the licensing officials at the time of purchase.

ENJOYED BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. William Hunter was guest of honor at a surprise birthday party Thursday evening, when many neighbors and friends invaded her home. Games were enjoyed, and last but not least a sumptuous pot luck lunch was served.

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

Kathleen, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Briscoe, who was quite seriously ill with bronchial pneumonia, is getting along nicely at present.

A story is being added to the large front balcony at Mercy Hospital, adding largely to convenience and comfort. A new composition slate roof has just been added also.

Mrs. R. E. Lemke was in the city several days last week and packed up her household goods and moved to Bay City. She with her husband resided on duPont street. The latter passed away in Bay City during the month of July following a very long illness.

T. W. Hanson gave a dinner party Friday evening, at Shoppenagons Inn in honor of Gilbert A. Currie, candidate for congress from this district.

Largest vote in the history of Grayling township last Tuesday—543 ballots were cast. There were 134 straight republican and 122 straight democrat ballots cast. Grayling township gave a majority in favor of prohibition of 69, and against home rule of 124.

The body of John Koeley was found in the mill pond at the big mill Friday noon of last week. Coroner Dr. Insley said that the body had been in the water at least two weeks. It is supposed that he had fallen in while attempting to cross the small foot bridge at that place. Mr. Koeley was the father of Mrs. Jens Hanson of Beaver Creek township. He was 72 years of age. Funeral services were held Saturday from Sorenson Bros. undertaking rooms, Rev. Mitchell officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Sigwald Hanson of Shepard, Mich., are spending the week visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hanson.

Mrs. Fred Mutton packed their household goods last week, and left Monday for Bay City, where Mr. Mutton had been employed for the M. C. and where they will reside in the future. Their residence they vacated here will be occupied by H. Hanson and wife.

At the regular meeting of the Danish Young People's society last Thursday evening, the annual election of officers took place for the ensuing year. The different offices were filled as follows: L. C. Mrs. James W. Sorenson expects to leave Friday for Marlette to visit her brother, Gust Anderson, who has been ailing for the past year, and who is now in a critical condition.

Evidence of the purchase of the J. L. & S. and the D. & C. railroad lines by the Michigan Central Railroad company is manifest by the recorded sales on file at the Register's office. The former lines are those generally known as the Mackinaw division of the Michigan Central and the D. & C. line runs from Frederic to East Jordan. It is the opinion of many that the D. & C. trains will run into Grayling soon, instead of having Frederic as a terminal.

Carl Hemmingsen spent the week here visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Schow. Mr. Hemmingsen is a sailor and has been sailing between North and South America for the past fourteen years. He will leave for Denmark the last of the week to visit his parents.

Ralph Hanna of Beaver Creek is in receipt of a dispatch from Sequin, Texas, saying that his oldest son John Hanna Jr., died Saturday and was buried Sunday. The young man had been

The entire Republican county ticket was elected with exception of County clerk.

It was a happy day for Mr. and Mrs. John K. Hanson Saturday when, in the evening, a large number of their friends met by invitation at Danebod hall to help celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary. The guests began arriving at 8:15 and as soon as all had arrived James W. Sorenson, acting as chairman in behalf of the Lutheran church society, announced the first number on the program to be a song written by Mrs. Peter Kjolhede. After a prayer and blessing of the church Rev. Kjolhede gave his address. Mr. Hanson gave a short talk, telling about their first days in Grayling. In behalf of the Danish Lutheran church society, James Sorenson presented Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hanson with a gold plate engraved with their name and date of their golden wedding anniversary. During the banquet hour T. W. Hanson read several letters and telegrams from friends unable to be present.

Monday evening the Woman's Club was hostess to the Good Fellowship club at the Social Club rooms. It was the opening meeting for the year of both clubs. An excellent program had been prepared. Mrs. Samuel Phelps, president of the Woman's club opened the meeting by welcoming the ladies in a very gracious manner. The president of the Good Fellowship club, Mrs. George Alexander responded in behalf of her club. Mrs. Phelps then asked Mrs. Edward Hartwick of Detroit the first president of the Good Fellowship club, to make a few remarks, which she did very happily. The ladies were then asked to get acquainted while dainty refreshments were served.

NAVY DAY, OCT. 27, 1939

FOOD FOR THE NAVY

Of inestimable value to America's farmers are the sailors aboard Uncle Sam's battleships. Each year the navy purchases millions of pounds of foodstuffs.

During the past fiscal year, navy cooks used 8,000,000 pounds of flour, 3,400,000 dozen eggs, 5,200,000 pounds of fresh bread, 880,000 pounds of biscuits and crackers, and 190,000 pounds of baking powder.

That the navy has a sweet tooth was demonstrated by the 7,000,000 pounds of sugar used in the 12-month period, together with 30,000 quarts of various extracts, and 90,000 gallons of sirup.

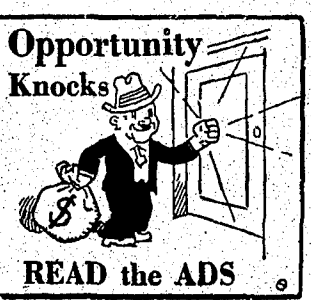

Meat, one of the most important dietary items, is purchased by the ton. Total consumption for the year amounted to 33,800,000 pounds.

Sailors ate 82,000,000 pounds of vegetables during the year, of which 40,000,000 pounds was fresh vegetables and 25,000,000 Irish potatoes. The navy menu included 27,300,000 pounds of fruit, of which 17,000,000 pounds was fresh.

Navy day, which focuses public attention on the U. S. fleet, will see ships' crews at their best—and that includes the kitchen help—one of the most important departments. The army isn't alone in "traveling on its stomach." The navy must be fed—and fed well!

Ancient Military Practices Forerunner of Hat Tipping

Why do men lift their hats to women?

It is believed that the custom of uncovering the head as a mode of salutation originated in the military practices of the ancients. In the days when men wore heavy armor a man would take off his helmet or headgear to show that he was not afraid to stand with head uncovered in the presence of another; it was an act expressive of confidence. Later it became customary to remove the headgear to show deference to a superior or as a mark of respect to a person of distinction. It was only a step further to lift the headgear as an act of politeness or gallantry to ladies, and thus raising the hat gradually became a general method of greeting women.

The practice retains some of its earlier significance and many people still take off their hats to salute distinguished persons of either sex, and respect for the national flag is shown in the same manner. Members of the Society of Friends do not believe in raising the hat. George Fox, the founder of the society, taught that a Christian should submit to persecution and even face death itself rather than touch his hat to the greatest of mankind, whether male or female.

When asked to produce Scriptural authority for his dogma on this subject, Fox cited the Biblical passage in which it is stated that Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego were thrown into the fiery furnace with their hats on. He also pointed out that the Turks never show their bare heads to their superiors and said that they should not be permitted to surpass Christians in virtue.

Majolica Derives Name From Island of Majorca

The true majolica ware is a form of painted and enameled earthenware sometimes finished with a brilliant luster and always very decorative in character. The name is derived from the fact that the first specimens of this ware were imported to Italy from the small island of Majorca, one of the Balearic isles, off the coast of Spain. The Saracens flourished in this group of islands for several centuries.

In 1115, the Crusaders captured Majorca, and many pieces of the pottery found their way to Italy. The Italians improved the ware to such an extent that some very fine examples of painted and enameled pottery with a luster finish were made in Italy. The decorations were painted on the enameled ground sometimes before it was fired and sometimes after. The earlier and more decorative pieces were painted on the unfired ground which absorbed the colors, much of their richness being due to the colors having sunk below the ground surface. Majolica retained its purity of medieval style and design until the Fifteenth century.

The Wars of the Roses were a series of civil wars in England between the rival houses of York and Lancaster in the latter half of the Fifteenth century. They were so named because the badge of Lancaster was a red rose and that of York was a white rose. The House of Lancaster had obtained the throne of England in 1399. When Henry V died, he left as heir a child nine months old who proved both physically and mentally unfit. Under these circumstances Richard, duke of York, claimed the throne. The wars ended with the defeat and death of Richard III at Bosworth, August 22, 1485, and the succession of Henry VII, representing the house of Lancaster, whose marriage with a Yorkish princess, united the conflicting interests.

Marine Hospitals The marine hospitals of the United States public health service are supported by appropriations made by congress for the "pay of personnel and maintenance of hospitals of the United States." From 1798 until 1886 they were maintained by a tax of 20 cents per month which was collected by the collector of customs from each sailor on American merchant marine ships. From 1886 to 1906 a special tonnage tax provided their maintenance. Since 1906 the hospitals have been maintained by direct appropriations made by congress.

About the Panama Canal The canal works and other improvements in the Canal Zone are the property of the United States government. In a strictly technical sense, the United States did not acquire title to any territory in Panama by the Isthmian treaty of 1903. It obtained a perpetual right of occupation, use and control over the land within the zone. For this privilege it paid $10,000,000 outright, and pays a rental of $250,000 annually during the life of the treaty.

Non-Smokers in College Forty per cent of the students at Niagara university at Niagara Falls, N. Y., do not smoke, according to a survey by the business statistics class under the guidance of Bernard P. Guerin, instructor in the school of business. The average cigarette smoker consumes about half a pack a day, according to the survey. Only seven students consumed more than a pack a day.

This is the greatest improvement in cooking utensils in more than a century. Stainless steel is used for the body and copper for the bottom. These are the perfect metals for the modern kitchen. The stainless steel has a high polish, mirror-like finish—resists denting—everlasting beauty. The copper bottom distributes heat uniformly, which means greatest cooking efficiency. These utensils are as easy to clean as glass—for routine cleaning, soap and water make them gleam like silver. Both metals are perfect and indestructible in the purposes they serve.

The Michigan Mirror

Non-partisan News Letter
Michigan Press Association
By GENE ALLEMAN

Lansing—Effective in Michigan this week is a new statute which strives once more to untangle the age-old problem of land.

It mirrors a major part of the history of Michigan itself. This history is written in the terms of human use of land and of exploitation by outside interests of the land's natural resources and by-products such as fur, timber, iron, copper, oil and gas.

It recalls the hey-day of greedy speculation of land in the Detroit metropolitan area during the boom years of 1924, 1925 and 1926 when a wave of excessive and poorly controlled subdividing swept over the city and its environs, leaving in its wake a trail of tax delinquencies and over-developed realty.

It reveals a shameful neglect and indifference by state and local government in intelligent planning and conservation.

It reviews a reoccurring cycle of human ambition and disillusionment, success and failure, happiness and heartaches.

Here is a subject so commonplace that it is almost prosaic.

Yet there probably is no one other thing in Michigan which affects so many people. Consider then for a few minutes this paramount problem of land and how our state government is trying to solve it.

The New Land Plan

Confronted with the cold fact that 1938 advertising of delinquent land in Michigan had disclosed the existence in tax default of approximately 1,500,000 acres in northern Michigan, and the Upper Peninsula and literally millions of dollars in undeveloped residential and business lots in the Detroit metropolitan area, the 1939 state legislature arrived at this solution:

(1) Tax delinquent land north of the south line of Arenac, Midland, Isabella, Mecosta, Newaygo, and Oceana counties would go to the state conservation department for disposal through its land division. Thus, suitable forest land (and unsuitable agricultural land) could be added to the state forests. Municipalities would be given an opportunity to acquire lots within their boundaries for purpose of school sites, playgrounds or parks.

(2) Tax delinquent land lying south of the above line which extends generally from Muskegon to Bay City would be offered for re-sale by a state land board at a "salvage" auction in May, 1940. All such land will be offered for sale at a minimum of 25 cents on the dollar of assessed valuation. Dispossessed owners may have the privilege of matching the highest bid and of obtaining title again. Former title-holders may enter into an agreement with the state land board to pay such a redeeming price over a period not exceeding 10 years.

If the lands are not redeemed by former owners within the 30 day period, a deed will be issued conveying absolute title to the "salvage sale" purchaser.

Northern Michigan

In Northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula the state conservation department may dispose of the delinquent tax lands in one of three ways:

(1) Reserve the land for state forests and other conservation units. This would recognize the character of the land as being unsuitable for agricultural use. Speculators could not obtain the land for exploitation after which the land likely would revert to tax delinquency and thus proceed once more through the process of being advertised, offered for sale, and so on.

(2) Offer at public auction after appraisal and establishment of minimum prices—owner at time of tax sale having 30 days following the auction to redeem for the amount of the auction bid. This corresponds with the plan for southern Michigan with one exception that while sale is discretionary in northern Michigan, it is mandatory in southern Michigan.

(3) Exchange with the United States and individuals when such procedure is for the best interests of the state.

In the place of speculation and spoliation, through which hundreds of millions of second-growth trees might be stripped by lumbermen and "timber skinned," Northern Michigan lands is to be carefully administered by a state department created in 1921 for the purpose of fostering conservation of natural resources.

Southern Michigan

The land problem that exists in southern Michigan is largely the result of a subdivision boom, quite like the Florida boom which developed in the mid-twenties.

Today, in the city of Detroit and in an adjacent area enough subdivided lots are on the tax rolls to accommodate an increase in population of three million people!

The Michigan Planning Commission, in a survey completed in 1939, found that only 4.3 per cent of subdivision lots in four townships in Wayne county, immediately adjacent to Detroit, were being utilized. The commission also pointed out that a lack of coordinated policy of restrictions had produced "rural slums." Out of 5,323 residences constructed in four townships, 60 per cent are without furnaces, 58 per cent without bathrooms, and 54 per cent without basements.

In thirteen metropolitan townships studied, 65.1 per cent of all subdivision lots platted were advertised in the 1938 tax sale. More than three-fourths of all advertised lots were tax delinquent for five years or more.

The committee concludes: "The return of this land to private ownership, unencumbered by delinquent taxes, will not assure the payment of taxes in the future, unless the return is accompanied by a program which will bring this land into proper use." It would only mean a repetition of existing abuses, another turn in the land merry-go-round.

Responsibility for prevention of such abuses should be vested, the commission continues, with "legally constituted planning authorities having jurisdiction broad enough in scope to encompass the overlapping interests of municipalities, townships, and counties in the area affected by the plat."

Land Grants

Originally all land in Michigan belonged to the Federal government, and prior to that, of course, to the Indians.

In 1837, when Michigan was admitted to the Union, section 18 of every township was turned over to the state with the stipulation that sale proceeds would go to a state primary school fund. Later, the state colleges were given a grant of 30,000 acres for every representative in Congress. In 1850 Congress passed a swamp land act whereby six million acres came into state ownership for drainage development. The state would give swamp land script in payment for the building of roads and bridges, such script being discounted at banks and purchased by land speculators.

Then came federal land grants to builders of railroads, whereby belts of land six to eleven miles in width were granted outright to railroads. (1866, Lansing to Traverse Bay railroad.) Builders of the Soo ship canal and the Keweenaw ship canal, for example, were given a choice of desirable timber lands.

Between 1870 and 1890 came the timber-cutting boom when lumber interests stripped much of the land of valuable pine and then left the idle cut-over land tax delinquent, for the state to worry about.

It was not until the 1893 depression that the state, after trial and error process, established a sound general tax law which provided that five-year tax default land could be sold to homesteaders and land companies.

Into the modern picture comes the 1929 oil and gas discovery in Midland and Isabella counties—an interesting story in itself.

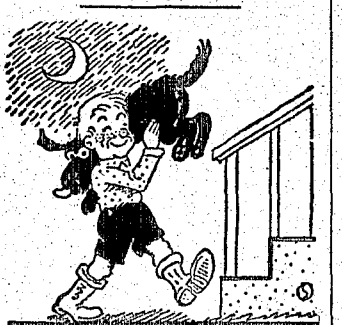

Tax Moratorium

In 1933, the year of the bank moratorium, the state legislature enacted a tax moratorium for relief of distressed property owners.

In May of 1936 a tax sale was to have been held to sell 1933 tax default and any unpaid installments (10-year plan) on 1932 and previous tax years. The legislature later delayed the tax sale to May, 1938, when the accumulation of all tax defaults were compiled into one gigantic tax list. In metropolitan areas the tax delinquencies had mounted to astounding proportions, and the cost of publication in these counties (despite a 50 per cent reduction by the 1937 legislature) was abnormally large for reasons found in simple arithmetic.

The present grand jury investigation at Lansing into possible mishandling of state funds through the office of the 1937 and 1938 auditor general, George Gundry, and his assistant, Martin Lavan, attorney at Brighton, involves the metropolitan tax lists.

Thus, the land story unfolds a history of Michigan from the era of Indian fur trade to the present week. The state once again seeks a solution for an old problem in which speculation and exploitation have had such a prominent place.

THE WAR IN EUROPE

What Are the Peace Terms?

With France uncertain whether the German Army is ready to launch a great offensive, Great Britain waiting for intensified aerial and submarine attacks and diplomats generally watching developments affecting neutral nations, we turn this week to the contemplation of peace which must eventually compel statesmen to work out the details of a "new order" in Europe, if not the world.

Although the war in Europe has hardly gotten underway, the attention of statesmen will belong being directed to the task which will belong to the victor when the fighting ends and the nations involved attempt to restore order and to preserve peace for the future.

Anthony Eden, Dominions Secretary of the British Government, points out that his country must not only win the war but also the "after-war." The latter, he says, may be the more difficult task because it will then be necessary to give "practical expression to the innermost feelings of men and women in all lands where servitude has not starved or frozen them."

German Aims Academic

The aims of a nation at war are important only if the nation wins the war. A peace, dictated by Germany, would probably include conditions similar to those imposed upon the Czechs and the Poles. However, as most of us believe that Germany will not win this war, the war aims of that nation possess only an academic interest until events develop that make it probable that Hitler will be the victor.

No such observation can be applied to the British and French nations, which are generally considered the prospective winners of the war. Consequently, upon them devolves the duty of plainly stating their aims and objectives, with special attention to the organization of Europe after the guns cease their barking.

It may be a little early to expect the statesmen of Britain and France to announce, positively and conclusively, the aims and objectives of the present war. They have been stated in general terms, but the principles enunciated have not been applied to the particular conditions which will exist when the war ends. Just at present, with the belligerents anxiously courting the neutrals, it is almost impossible to declare any absolute program for Europe in peace.

An Absence of Hatred

It is interesting to observe that there is an absence of hatred toward Germany in England and France. The peoples of the two nations have accepted war as an inevitable step toward the creation of a new Europe. They seem to realize that it is their job to win the war and to shape the form of a new era in which European peoples can enjoy the advantage of peaceful progress.

It is worth pointing out, in connection with this subject, that the Union of South Africa, which was secured by the British Army after a three-year campaign, is wholeheartedly behind the British Empire in the present struggle. Everyone recalls the case of General Smuts, who led the Boers in their struggle against the British and later lived to cooperate with his foes in the World War. More recently, he upset the Government of South Africa because it wished to be neutral in the present struggle.

An Earlier Example

In a recent broadcast, Colonel Denys Reitz, Minister for Native Affairs in the Union of South Africa, recalled that he fought Britain for three years in South Africa and went into exile rather than live under the Union Jack when peace was finally concluded. But, he points out, Britain, "after defeating us in war, treated us with a generosity unknown in history and conferred on us an even greater measure of liberty than we had enjoyed under our former republic. Continuing, he says, "Today, we are not only free, but also safer than we could hope to be if we were on our own with the smash and grab policy which is now trying to dominate the world."

If the British and French win the present war, it is to be hoped that they will recall the benefits which have accrued to Great Britain through her generosity to the Boers. By following such an example in the framing of peace terms and in setting up the new order in Europe it might be possible to bring to an end the incessant warfare which has undoubtedly hampered the progress of the peoples of that Continent.

War Cuts British Trade

While much is heard of the British blockade of Germany, which has practically removed German commerce from the high seas, the influence of the war upon British commerce has been overlooked.

Reports from London show that the first months of war have resulted in a reduction of foreign trade that amounts to nearly forty per cent. Imports are down by one-third and exports by about forty-two per cent. While the British Government, in order to prevent information getting to the enemy, withholds details about its foreign trade, imports of grain and meat in September dropped sharply while imports of ores, scrap iron, cotton and silk, all useful in war, scored sharp increases.

If British foreign commerce dropped forty per cent during the first month of the struggle, when British ships continued to ply the oceans one can imagine that German foreign commerce, except in the Baltic area, was practically extinguished. While military activity has been slight, there is no getting around the fact that the war has already played havoc with the commerce of the nations involved. Unless there is a decisive battle on the military front, the outcome of the war will depend upon the ability of the nations to carry on under the economic stringencies that the war entails.

If this is to be the decisive factor of the war, it can hardly be doubted that Great Britain and France are better able to endure than Germany.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING
By CHARLES B. ROTH

AN EXPERIMENT IN HORSE-FEEDING

THERE'S an old story I have always liked. It is about the parsimonious Frenchman who ruined the money he spent in feeding his horse. After scheming and planning he hit upon an idea which would enable him to stop all that.

It was beautifully simple: Each day he would gradually cut down the amount of feed he gave the horse. He would cut it down so gradually, in fact, that the animal wouldn't ever realize he was being cheated.

The horse would thus become used to getting along on less. Eventually he would need no feed at all. Think of the money that would save!

The French genius scientifically set about carrying on the experiment. Several months later he was telling about it with pride in his voice. Did it work? asked a friend. "Work? Oh, yes, indeed, it did!" he exclaimed. "It worked perfectly. Beautifully. The only trouble was that just about the time my horse got used to going without feed, he died."

We laugh at the benighted condition of a man with an idea as foolish as this, but many business men try to stop feeding their business "horse" by eliminating or cutting down on their advertising.

The fact is that advertising is the feed which keeps their business in robust health and full of energy and strength.

Many examples can be cited of the inevitable result of stopping advertising. Two will do. Forty years ago there was a remedy on the market which was America's biggest seller. It was widely, intelligently, consistently advertised. Its name was a household word. Then the founder of the business died. His heirs decided to cut out advertising because "our product is so well known people will have to buy it." The product passed out of the picture entirely.

Another was a fine, honest, well-made, well-advertised toilet soap, with all the good will any product could possibly need. The management of the business changed. The advertising stopped. Soon the product was no longer on the market.

The reason why advertising must be a continuous process is that we human beings need constant reminding. We're not fickle. But we are so filled with our own ideas and plans and businesses that if a man who wants our trade doesn't ask for it regularly and often, we drift elsewhere to the man who does.

The advertiser is faced by the problem of asking his customers to buy from him, but he also has to consider the most economical way of extending his invitation.

He finds the answer to both parts of this problem in the newspaper. No other form of advertising has ever been discovered which will carry his message so effectively for so little cost.

Several members of the Catholic Woman's Guild attended a district meeting of the National Council of Catholic Women at Mancelona Wednesday afternoon. In the group were Mrs. Thomas Cassidy, Mrs. C. J. Walter Hastings, of Lansing, official photographer for the State Department of Conservation and pilot, Walter Sears of the aeronautics division of Lansing were in Grayling Wednesday noon and were guests at the Kiwanis luncheon. A pole carrying high tension electric wires was struck by a speeding auto Sunday morning at the curve south of Grayling, breaking it off at the base. Live wires were strewn all over the highway. Witnesses say the car rolled over completely, and that one of the occupants was thrown out. He returned to the car and drove away quickly. The identity of the two men occupying the car is not known at this time. The pole was the property of the Michigan Public Service Co. Sheriff Papendick is looking for the two men in the car, who, if found, will be charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

J. Martin, Secretary; Mrs. Harry Souder, treasurer. On Wednesday, November 29, installation will be held at the temple, with Mrs. Wm. McNeven as the installing officer and Mrs. Joseph McLeod as installing marshal.

The City of Grayling is confronted with a problem of providing new quarters for the city library. The latter is now located in the city hall but that room is now required for office purposes. The matter of building a place for the library would be too expensive, according to the opinion of some of the councilmen, for it is the intention to ultimately build a new city hall. The purchase of some adequate building and move it onto the lot adjoining the present city offices is being considered. Manager Geo. Granger says something must be done as the present quarters will be too small just as soon as the new electric power plant gets into production.

By next Monday, hunters who intend to hunt in this region will be arriving and by next Tuesday evening the streets will be lined with redcoats. Grayling, with its thrilling night life, is a popular place to come on all occasions, and especially during deer hunting season.

The huge pumpkin face that graced the window at Larry McNamara's house on Halloween served as the table centerpiece for his birthday party Saturday afternoon. Topped with Indian headdress of feathers and a large pipe stuck in its mouth, a flasher from within kept the face beaming broad smiles. Larry was eight years old and with his fifteen guests enjoyed a theatre party at the Rialto. Returning home Howard Granger was on hand and a photograph of the group was taken. Then there were favors for everyone and a delicious lunch, with an individual birthday cake for each one.

Tony Nielsen, county superintendent of the state highways, reports that the new highway from Grayling to Lake Margrethe will be 824 feet shorter in distance than the one now in use. That is equal to about 1-8th of a mile. There has been some discussion about the distance being shorter by the new route, but this has now been definitely settled. Mr. Nielsen says that if everything goes along without trouble, the new route will be ready for use in about 3 weeks. While it has been determined that the concrete highway beginning at the junction of 93 and 76 and running nearly to the lake will be removed, it has been decided that it will remain open this winter in order to accommodate those wishing to go to the winter park. Beyond the park, however, it will be scarified.

The Tri-County Telephone Co. announce an increase in the number of subscribers since the new dial system has been installed. According to their Mr. Ineson, the Company had expected that they would lose more customers than they gained. This was not the condition, however. With an increase of 15 subscribers over all former records, speaks well for the Company. Certainly this group is trying to give the public service, and they seem to be doing a good job of it. We hear only good comments about the new dial system.

Basketball season for some 35 or 40 high school boys has already started as Coach Cornell issued the first call for practice this week. The first few drills are used for conditioning and drill of fundamentals but so far the squad seems to be shaping up nicely. FREDERIC SCHOOL

The Third and Fourth grade had a party in their room last Tuesday. They had great fun ducking after apples.

Mrs. Quick had quite a time picking out the funniest face in the Kindergarten First and Second grades.

Joan Madill was the first in the pig contest to win her 25¢ in trade at the carnival. She is in the third grade and has sold 100 tickets.

The Third graders have been making posters in good manners.

The Third and Fourth grades are going to make a village in their sand table.

The people who received gold stars in spelling in the third and fourth grade are: Arla Barber, Murry Bindschatel, Nancy Hodge, Jane Roe, Jeannine Stillwagon, Betty Lou Barber, David Babbitt, Harriet Horton, Joyce Howse, Muriel Roe.

The Fifth and Sixth grades are working on an assembly program to be given Wednesday in which the first six grades will take part.

The people in grades five and six who received 100 in spelling last week are: Alice Ray, Lois Winston, Joe Murphy, Gloria Feldhauser, Laurel Rolfe, Lorna Nephew.

We wish to make a correction about the all-school carnival. The date has been set for Nov. 15, instead of the tenth.

The High School debating team goes to Boyne City, Nov. 9 for another important debate. This will be our first league debate of the season.

The shop boys are nearly finished with their new tool cabinet and are putting new tops on all work benches.

There is to be a basketball game between the High school and Independents if enough high school players are eligible.

For the first time in the school history the boys who wish to go deer hunting will be denied the privilege. That is of hunting the first day, due to plans for the carnival. They may go hunting the second day and a few days after that. But the first day is the biggest and best. The boys are still protesting and hope to be able to go.

We have a new teacher in charge of the assembly room now. He is Mr. J. Stillwagon of Lovells.

He also drives one of the buses. The English Lit. class is studying drama, mainly Shakespeare's works.

The Bookkeeping class is still working on partnerships. They hope they'll soon be finished as they think they know all there is to know about it.

The Chemistry class is reviewing the essentials of the chapters they have studied. One of the students mentioned the fact that he found it very boring.

Mrs. Quick, the primary teacher, is starting to organize a vocal class. The girls seem to like the idea.

Some of the boys have a look of impatience on their face each Monday morning as they wait for the eligibility list to be posted.

The Freshmen gave the Sophomores a party Thursday evening. Everyone had a grand time. One of the big events of the evening was a scavenger hunt.

The Juniors received their rings last Wednesday.

Aftermath of War

On Nov. 11, 1918—just 21 years ago—the Armistice brought the World war to an end. It didn't, however, end the suffering of thousands of men. In the Hines Memorial hospital at Hines, Ill., approximately 1,700 disabled men are cared for, taught to earn a living, and are being guided back to health.

Here a partially disabled veteran operates a weaving machine. Records show that even in the case of spinal paralysis, when the veteran is at first unable to hold a ball of yarn, co-ordination has been taught and the veteran, in a year's time, can do beautiful weaving.

"Shell-shock" is never mentioned at Hines hospital. The term is "war neurosis." All nurses are teachers and superintendent patients' activities. Beautiful brass and copper ware are turned out by these skilled artisans. The veterans are earning money, and glow with pride of their achievements.

This woodworker at his lathe manufactures furniture both beautiful and practical. Occupational therapy cures many seemingly hopeless cases of advanced melancholy and "creeping death."

One of the many pottery workers at Hines hospital. Hundreds of men are out in the world today making a good living by doing similar work. Most of these men have had no training other than that received at Hines. Each veteran is treated as any other person is treated by a physician in the outside world. The medical staff consists of 200 physicians and dental surgeons.

Red Cross Has Interesting History

Seventy-five years ago—a brief moment in the century-spanning years of history—Henri Dunant, a Swiss idealist, gave the Red Cross to the world. Humane treatment of the battle wounded is accepted today so much as a matter of course, that many of us do not realize that this three-quarters of a century gaps the change from sheer barbarism on the battlefield to the protection now granted by the Red Cross flag.

Few instances in ancient and medieval history record the organization of efforts to relieve the sick and wounded in war. Haldora the Dane, in the year 10000, assembled the women of her household on the eve of a battle and sent them out to bind the wounds of the fallen soldiers while she attended the wounded army chieftain. This incident of the Nordic chieftainess is the first recorded manifestation of compassion and mercy in war. The Knights of St. John or the Knights Hospitalers of the Crusades, however, presented the first organized effort to alleviate the sufferings of battle wounded. Dating from 1023, when the Knights first established hospitals in Jerusalem, the military order was afterward suppressed, but in the Middle Ages was revived as a charitable institution with special provisions for tending the sick and wounded in war.

Florence Nightingale Much closer to the Red Cross of today was the work done by Florence Nightingale for the sick and wounded of the English army during the Crimean War. Following an exposure in the press of the intolerable conditions of the wounded in Crimea, Miss Nightingale and thirty-eight nurses in October, 1854, left London for Scutari. She had the authority of the Secretary of State for War for her mission.

There she was given the rank of Brigadier General, and with her nurses, she established a hospital under sanitary conditions. Because of her work there and later in establishing nursing standards, she has become the nurse heroine of the world. Miss Nightingale was an Englishwoman. She was born in 1820 and died in 1910.

Henri Dunant It remained, however for Dunant, who lived the life of an unassuming gentleman and died in obscurity, to give to the world the epoch-making idea which grew into the greatest humanitarian organization of the ages.

No biographies have been written about this man who conceived an idea that has enrolled 63 nations under one banner. Mention of his name is found here and there in the English encyclopedias. He received one-half of the first Nobel peace award.

There exists no monument in stone to his memory. No grave marks his resting place, because his ashes were scattered to the winds in Zurich, following his death in Switzerland on October 30, 1910, in the 82nd year of his life.

But every Red Cross flag—the white flag with the brilliant red cross emblazoned upon it—that flies around the world, is a symbol in recognition of Dunant's memory, because in his honor the flag of his native Switzerland, red with white cross, was reversed to make the flag of the International Red Cross.

Dunant first became known to continental Europe when he published a small volume entitled, "Un Souvenir de Solferino." It contained a brilliant and striking description of a great battle written from the point of view of a non-combatant humanitarian. The book became one of the "best sellers" of the years succeeding its publication in 1862, and went into eight editions in French and was translated into virtually every tongue of the civilized world in the following decade.

It was in June, 1859, while travelling leisurely through Lombardy that the young Swiss, whose modest fortune enabled him to devote himself to charitable works, came within the region of the collision of the armies of Austria and the Franco-Sardinian forces. The battle occurred on the hill of Solferino, south of Lake Garda.

Dunant assembled neighborhood girls and women to aid him in visiting the battlefields and succoring the soldiers dying of wounds, thirst and exposure. For three days they carried on this work. Dunant, realizing the futility of their efforts, finally managed to reach Napoleon III, who was in personal command of his troops. His mission so impressed the young emperor that he consented to release all Austrian prisoners, so that they might return with Dunant to treat the wounded.

Thus, in the span of a week's time, the young Dunant had accomplished one of the outstanding achievements since the days of chivalry—recognition of the principle that medical men were neutrals in the battle zone and should treat the enemy wounded as well as their own nationals.

Previous to this battle, while every nation possessed a flag of its own for field hospitals, it was not generally recognized by the enemy, which carried off ambulances, cut down the medical staff while they treated the wounded, and despatched the dying soldier, or left him to linger where he fell.

Returning to his home in Geneva, Dunant later wrote his impression of those terrible weeks, and in conclusion urged the formation of voluntary societies, whose aim should be to succor the wounded in time of war, and to give aid in epidemics or national disasters in time of peace.

So in 1862 were first outlined the principles and purposes found today in the articles of the various Red Cross societies of the world.

A group of Swiss friends of Dunant, first interested themselves in his plan. Later he laid it before Prince Frederick of Germany (afterward Kaiser Wilhelm I), the Empress of Austria, the King of Savoy and Napoleon III. In 1863 the first international conference in Geneva was called, and sixteen states or nations were represented. A number of important resolutions were adopted but no formal action taken. In August, 1864, another meeting was called and thirteen European nations and the United States were represented—but the latter unofficially. This conference drew up the famous articles now known as the Treaty of Geneva. The immediate signers were France, Switzerland, Belgium, Netherlands, Italy, Norway, Denmark, Spain and Baden.

America Hesitates

At this conference, the United States was represented by George C. Fogg, the American minister to Switzerland, and Charles S. P. Bowles, European agent of the Sanitary Commission. They were designated by President Lincoln in response to a personal letter from Dunant. The Civil War was being fought in the United States and public-spirited men and women had created the voluntary Sanitary Commission, which served in some measure to hospitalize the wounded Federal troops, to give them comfort, provide women nurses and to raise funds to pay for this work.

But Fogg and Bowles had no authority other than to report on the new Red Cross treaties.

Seventeen years intervened between the first gathering in Geneva in 1864 and the first governmental recognition in the United States of the purposes of the Red Cross. During those years, however, several ardent but futile efforts had been made to obtain approval in Washington of this international humanitarian ideal.

Dr. Henry W. Bellows, a clergyman of national fame and president of the Sanitary Commission, interested himself and in 1866 organized the "American Association for Relief of Misery of Battlefields," using the Red Cross insignia. But several successive Secretaries of State recommended against accession to the treaty, believing the United States should be kept aloof from general treaties.

Founding of the American Red Cross

Clara Barton, a former school teacher from New England, America's first woman government clerk in Washington and during the Civil War a volunteer worker among the war wounded, was the next person to work actively to bring the Red Cross principles into use by the U. S. Government. Her interest had been enlisted while on a visit to Switzerland in 1869. Friends of Dunant gave her a commission to urge the United States to join the Red Cross treaty, but when the matter was presented to President Grant, it was found he opposed it—again on the grounds of holding aloof from foreign treaties. This opposition continued through the Hayes' administration. The first encouragement came in the administration of President Garfield, when his Secretary of State, James G. Blaine, wrote on May 21, 1881, that he would recommend adherence.

On that night 50 friends of Miss Barton met at her home in Washington and organized "The Association of the American Red Cross," electing her president. Garfield's tragic death from an assassin's bullet prevented recognition of the Red Cross by the Government, but in the first message to the Congress of his successor, President Arthur, on December 6, 1881, recommendation was made that the United States adhere to the Treaty of Geneva. This action followed March 1, 1882, when the President, with the consent of the Senate, signed the Geneva Treaty; the Swiss Federation accepted the signature June 9 and July 26 President Arthur proclaimed the Treaty.

Miss Barton remained president of the Association of the Red Cross until its reorganization in 1905 under a new Congressional Charter. She died in Washington, April 12, of that year, at 91 years of age.

Since 1905

With its reorganization in 1905 the American Red Cross came into its field of greatest usefulness. It became semi-governmental through its control by a Central Committee, a board composed of 18 members, six of whom are appointed annually by the President of the United States, including the Chairman; six are elected by the Board of Incorporators and six are elected by the Chapter delegates.

By custom, the appointees by the President to the Central Committee (other than the chairman) are representatives of the following government agencies: War, Navy, State Department, Department of Justice, Treasury. The Central Committee is the policy-forming board of the Red Cross.

The Board of Incorporators dates back to the organization of the Red Cross in 1881, and vacancies are filled by vote of its membership. A board of trustees composed of a different group of officers from the two boards mentioned above, controls the endowment fund of the American Red Cross.

How Financed

The national headquarters are in Washington, with area headquarters in St. Louis and San Francisco. The local unit of organization is the Chapter and its branches.

The national organization and its Chapters are financed solely by contributions from the public.

New Traffic Laws

From State Police Department

(Editor's Note: This is the last of a series of ten articles, prepared by the Michigan State Police, high-spotting Michigan's new traffic law which becomes effective Sept. 29. Important changes have been made in customary driving habits. Greater safety—and fewer traffic arrests—will result from a close study of these articles).

Bicycles and Motorcycles

Because of the increased number of accidents involving bicycles, a section of the state's new traffic law provides specific regulations for all two-wheeled vehicles.

Under this act, a second person shall not be carried on a motorcycle or bicycle unless upon a firmly attached seat. In other words, persons shall not hereafter be carried on the handlebars or seated on a luggage carrier or rack in front of or to the rear of the operator.

Two-wheeled vehicles shall be ridden not more than two abreast. Although not required in the law, it would be better if such motorcycles or bicycles would be driven in single file. They should be ridden on the right side of the street and well over to the edge.

Packages cannot be carried which prevent the rider from keeping both hands on the handlebars.

At night, bicycles and motorcycles must be safely lighted.

Hitching onto other vehicles by those on bicycles, motorcycles, sleds, roller skates, coasters or toy vehicles is unlawful. Michigan State Police accident records show many accidents result from this practice.

Lovells

Lawrence Barber of Kalkaska was a caller in Lovells last week. Bert Prentice of Marine City spent the week end at his cabin last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Nephew and family spent Sunday with Mrs. Nephew's parents, at St. Helens.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Anderson of Detroit enjoyed a few days at the Anderson Lodge.

Jack Caid, Judson McCormick, Guy and Helen Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Stillwagon, Lewis Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Nephew, Mrs. Cora Nephew, Iris Nephew, John Selley, Mrs. Rose Dodd and Mrs. Margaret Wedding attended the masquerade dance at Lewiston. Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Nephew each won a favor for the best dressed, and Mrs. Cora Nephew won a favor for the most comical dressed lady.

Claud Smith of Saginaw spent the week end at his cabin.

Beaver Creek

Mr. Kuk left for his home on the lake shores where he has quite a business with evergreen trees. It is understood he can sell without the trees being state inspected.

L. E. Myers is intending to sell his place near the Love school so as to build on his forty acres. Lawrence and Floyd Taylor have their cabins nearly completed. They are expecting to be in them for deer season.

George, Charles and Clarence Kane and Ben Garland left for Pontiac to construct a log cabin for the Pioneer Log Cabin Co., of Roscommon. It will be the largest they have put up yet.

FREDERIC HOME EC. CLASS STUDIES HOUSE FURNISHING

The Home Extension class of Frederic met at the community building on Monday evening for the first lesson of the year. The lesson was presented by Mrs. Ace Leng and her assistant.

This is the second year the Frederic class has taken up the study of home furnishings. The increased attendance is proof of the popularity of these classes.
